Germans 'No Like It'

A friend told me a story yesterday afternoon — just the two of us men — and we both laughed. This was the story: My friend was over in a neighboring town visiting his sister and she was telling him about the row they were having in the house next door. It seems that the husband came home the other night and clean forgot that it was their wedding anniversary. My friend's sister was relating that the wife said this and the wife said that and the poor husband said nothing. Whereupon my friend spoke up and said to his sister:

"If I had been that husband I would have said: 'Look, honey, being as how it is, and the way things are in the world today, a man's lucky just to be able to remember that he's married.'"

That was the story yesterday afternoon — just us two men — and we both laughed.

Well, I told the same story over again — last night. But last night it somehow wasn't funny. What I mean is, nobody laughs.

For, you see, last night there were two wives present.

In a statement published here yesterday the Arkansas Farm Bureau Poultry Co-operative, Inc., condemned the federal government's anti-trust suit against A. & P. Food Stores, asserting that the production of the suit was a threat against both poultry producers and poultry consumers.

I am aware that a newspaper can't say a thing editorially about the feud between private business and the government without causing some worthy citizens to rise up and charge us with defending our advertising customers. Nevertheless I will continue to write what I think and believe in — including my exposition of the theory that every time the government "prosecutes monopoly" it manages to increase monopoly, and every time the government "controls prices" it raises the cost of living.

The fact is, as far as the A. & P. Food Stores are concerned, they are merely one of several equally valued but competing advertisers, and they were out of our columns once upon a time for years and we got along just the same.

What we are discussing here, really, is the right of American private business to carry out its legitimate development without being shaken down by the politicians. All I know about A. & P. is that years ago it brought down the cost of living; it set up a new pattern along its own line — and finally, it trained many young managers so successfully that they left it and went into business for themselves and made good.

If that's wrong, and a Washington lawyer's lawsuit is better stuff, then I don't know much.

However, the heads of the independent growers over America feel the same way I do — slugging it out in private trade is a better deal than the no-percentage shake-down of politicians.

News item from Bonn, capital of West Germany, reports that the Germans don't like the Allies deal which gives the Saar basin self-government in return for a 50-year lease of its coal fields to France.

Well, who was our foe and who was our ally in World War II? France has the right to ask something.

Germany hasn't even the right to speak out loud.

If the French don't work any harder than they did before the war the Saar coal won't do them much good — but at least it will be kept out of the hands of the people who every time they've had it used it to make war on the rest of us.

Fire Destroys Diamond Cafe Kitchen

A fire practically destroyed the kitchen of the Diamond Cafe and Cafeteria about 11:30 o'clock last night. There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Robert Carroll, manager, said today the blaze apparently started from an accumulation of gas. He said practically everything in the kitchen was damaged or destroyed including heavy equipment.

The blaze caught quickly and reached to the second floor causing some damage to the walls and flooring. The Fire Department quickly extinguished the fire.

It will take at least a week to get the cafeteria and cafe back in production. The connecting hotel and bus station is doing business as usual.

Treatment of Cotton Insects Discussed Here

Applying insecticides for control of cotton insects should be undertaken only where it is known that an active infestation occurs was the advice of Dr. Charles G. Lincoln, extension entomologist, University of Arkansas, to Hempstead county cotton producers at the court house in Hope yesterday afternoon. The county cotton insect control recommendations meeting was directed by Hempstead county Agent Oliver L. Adams.

Knowing the degree of active cotton insect infestation can only be determined in a given cotton field by the taking and evaluating of infestation records as has been and will be demonstrated to cotton producers in the field by the county agent said Dr. Lincoln. He continued by saying this determining the degree of active infestation was the most important step in cotton insect control.

The insecticides recommended for boll weevil control according to the University of Arkansas entomologist will be a choice of calcium arsenate, the 3-5-40 mixture, or 20 per cent toxaphene. The organic insecticides should be applied at the rate of 10 pounds or more per acre. Where calcium arsenate is used 2 per cent nicotine application is to prevent aphid build-up, or, it should be alternated with 3-5-40 in every second or third application.

For bollworm control Dr. Lincoln recommended a 10 per cent DDT dust to be applied when eggs or 4 or 5 worms are found in 100 cotton plant terminals. Sulphur included in mixtures of the organic insecticides tends to repress outbreaks of red spider. Sulphur is also recommended for control of leaf hopper. Calcium arsenate is still first choice for the control of cotton leafworm.

Trash counts conducted by the federal experiment station at Tallulah, Louisiana, in late November 1949 gave 3232 mature weevils per acre. This number of hibernating weevils was the highest on record except in 1945, but the very cold weather that followed got the 1945 weevils. To date our weather on the 1949 hibernating weevils has been very mild as the temperature has been below 32 degrees only 28 times and generally for a very short while. The number of hibernating weevils is only a guide as the determining factor on weevil severity is the number of days that we have rainfall between June 21 and August 15. Another consideration is uniformity of cotton planting as was the case in 1948 when our cotton went in early and was made before the severe weevil population built up.

Cotton insect control information is available from the office of county agent Adams on request. It should be remembered by every farmer that proper preparation of the soil, ample fertilization, recommended varieties, thorough cultivation, seed treatment, and mechanization as well as proper poisoning are to be considered in good cotton farming. No poisoning program will give results unless adequate poison is available at the lowest possible cost when insects need poisoning.

Miss Kenyon to Answer Charge

Philadelphia, March 11 —(AP)—Attorney Dorothy Kenyon says she will go before a senate subcommittee Tuesday to "attack" Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who told the group she belonged to 28 pro-Red organizations.

Miss Kenyon made the statement yesterday at a news conference before appearing as principal speaker at a 100th anniversary celebration of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania. She is a former New York municipal judge and one-time U. S. representative to the United Nations.

McCarthy made his charge Thursday to a senate foreign relations subcommittee digging into the Wisconsin Republican's allegations that the state department is riddled with pro-Communist employees. Miss Kenyon says McCarthy lies when he accuses her.

Miss Kenyon told newsmen she had been informed that clippings from the Daily Worker, New York City Communist party organ, formed the basis of McCarthy's charges. The clippings, she said, were gathered by the house (of representatives) un-American activities committee and were mostly lists of purported backers of dinners and events.

One of the lists, she said, named sponsors for a dinner in honor of President Roosevelt, during the war.

She referred sarcastically to McCarthy as "the individual from Wisconsin" and declared she would "attack him" at the committee hearing rather than defend herself. She said she would spend the weekend digging into the record of her past affiliations, particularly during the "innocent" thirties.

Miss Kenyon said she had never knowingly belonged to any organization controlled by Communists or one in which she Communists were involved.

Klansmen Are Freed of Murder Charge

Pell City, Ala., March 11 —(AP)—A high-ranking Ku Klux Klansman and two other men have been freed of murder charges in the night-gang slaying of Charlie Hurst, a country storekeeper.

Released from jail yesterday were the Rev. Alvin Horn, Baptist minister and organizer for the Georgia Association of Klans; Jesse Wilson, 53, Talladega county farmer; and E. L. Hudson, a carpenter. Each lives at Talladega.

Three others are still being held on murder charges in the case. Charges against Horn, Wilson, and Hudson were suddenly dropped yesterday by motion of Circuit Solicitor Lland Randall, who said he had no statement to make regarding the withdrawal.

"Still in jail on murder charges are Albert Wilson, son of Jesse Wilson; Charles Carlisle, Jr., a Pell City textile worker; and Claude Luker, a furniture store operator at Talladega.

U. S. Asks New Trial in Land Condemnation

Texarkana, March 11 —(AP)—The U. S. government has asked for a new trial in a land condemnation case in which a former government attorney obtained a large judgment for property owners.

Federal Judge Harry J. Lemley was to resume hearing on the government petition today.

He was asked yesterday to disqualify John E. Harris Fort Smith, who represented Pike county property owners recently when a federal jury at Hot Springs awarded them more than $150,000 for land to be taken by the new Narrows dam.

Until December, 1947, Harris was an attorney in the Narrows land acquisition department.

Resisting the government move, he testified yesterday he had no confidential information concerning land or mineral values in the area and declared his employment by property owners violated no law or professional ethic.

He said when he resigned his government position, it was to run for congress—which he did, unsuccessfully, in 1948.

He testified he conferred with Federal Judge John E. Miller at Fort Smith before taking the case for the property owners and that Miller approved.

Fuchs Probably Stripped U. S. of A-Secrets

Washington, March 11 —(AP)—Dr. Karl Fuchs, confessed Russian spy, may have stripped the United States' scientific cupboard bare of all but its latest atomic secrets.

Further, it is considered likely among those familiar with the situation that he could have passed on to the Soviets highly "educated guesses," to say the least, about the rate of U. S. A-bomb production and the size of this country's stockpile.

Both are closely guarded secrets. So is all data connected with development of the potentially more deadly hydrogen bomb. Fuchs was familiar with the theory of the H-bomb, too.

Members of the senate-house atomic energy committee who saw the Fuchs' confession for the first time yesterday took a grave view of the matter. Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), committee chairman, declined to say what was in it or answer questions about it.

The confession, passed on by the British, reached the joint committee through the federal bureau of investigation and the atomic energy commission. AEC officials met with the committee behind closed doors to go over the document.

It was learned later that some information, including dates and names, had been deleted from the closely-guarded confession before it got to the committee.

Fuchs, a Communist and leading British atomic scientists, was convicted on March 1 of betraying British-American atomic secrets to Russia and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

The German-born scientists had been arrested in London February 3, on evidence supplied by the federal bureau of investigation. He had worked on the U. S. atomic bomb project from late 1943 until June 1946.

In Montreal, The Ensign, a Roman Catholic weekly newspaper, said yesterday it has proof that Canada in 1946 informed U. S. and British authorities that Fuchs was involved in the Russian spy network.

The Ensign also added, without giving any source, that the FBI had wanted to investigate Fuchs then but was not permitted to look into atomic espionage until 1947.

May Use Probe as Plan to Oust Acheson

Washington, March 11 —(AP)—A new Republican drive against Secretary of State Acheson appeared to be developing today behind the scenes of the Communist hunt inspired by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, brought the attack into the open yesterday with criticism of what he called Acheson's "bungling" in the Gubitchev spy case.

Wherry said the secretary demonstrated "unfitness" for his job by his offer to let Valentin A. Gubitchev—convicted with Judith Coplon of espionage conspiracy—escape a 15-year prison term if he leaves this country.

The senator said Acheson should have the law take its course, adding that Russian propagandists already are calling the move a sign of weakness.

Rep. Fellows (R-Me.) made a similar statement in the house. Although only five other Republicans joined Wherry in voting against senate confirmation of Acheson on Jan. 18, 1949, the new reindications that the Nebraska star-attack had the backing of a far larger number of his party members who would like to see the secretary of state dumped overboard.

McCarthy, who has charged that Communists hold key jobs in the state and has provided fresh ammunition for Republicans already critical of Acheson's statement that he would not turn his back on Alger Hiss.

Hiss, former department official, was convicted of lying about passing secret papers to an admitted Communist courier.

McCarthy already has brought Mrs. Acheson's name into the senator's investigation of the Wisconsin senator's charges.

He made it plain, however, that he pointed to her as a sponsor of an alleged Communist front organization only to show how easily it is for prominent persons unwittingly to be used by such groups.

Snow Falls in Midwest, Rocky Mountain Areas

Fresh falls of snow carpeted wide areas of the Midwest and Rocky mountain states today. Heavy falls were reported in many sections.

The snow belt extended from Michigan and the northern portions of Illinois and Indiana westward to Wyoming and southern Montana. Falls in northern Iowa and southern Wisconsin measured more than five inches.

Temperatures remained on the chilly side in most parts of the Midwest and northeastern states. The mercury dropped to 14 below zero at Remina, N. D. and the below freezing line extended across the northern tier of states into northern New England.

Temperatures moderated over the southern states and were near normal levels. They also were around seasonal readings over most of the Pacific coast region. Some rain fell in northern California and Oregon. Elsewhere fair weather prevailed.

Britain Warned to Drop Bans or Lose Aid

Washington, March 11 —(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman said today Britain stands to lose $150,000,000 in Marshall plan aid unless it joins with other European nations in a plan to lower trade barriers.

The economic cooperation administrator told reporters the big cutback — amounting to almost one quarter of the sum tentatively earmarked for British recovery next year — won't be put into effect as "punitive action"; the money simply will go into a proposed European payments union whether or not Britain joins.

Nevertheless, Hoffman said he is "annoyed" with the British for their stand on the complicated plan to help liberalize the exchange of currency among Western European countries.

"But they are the usual annoyances that result from trying to resolve differences," he said, adding that he expects British aid, along with the project eventually.

The European payments union, as blueprinted by Hoffman, would function as a currency clearing-house for all Marshall plan nations. ECA has set aside $600,000,000 to finance operation of the scheme but Britain so far has refused to say that it will participate.

Hoffman said the British have some very real problems which affect that country's attitude on the payments union.

These include extensive financial commitments with countries in the so-called sterling area which would be difficult to resolve should the British join the new currency pool.

This brings up some very real problems not trumped up ones, either," he said. But the recovery administrator said he still is annoyed at what he called the British failure to see the broader issues involved.

Hoffman has called the payments union a "must" if the Marshall plan is to succeed. In posting the threat of a slash in British funds, he served notice that ECA intends to go ahead with the clearinghouse whether or not Britain participates.

However, we will definitely leave the door open for the British to come in later," Hoffman said. Hoffman has told congressional committees that formation of the currency union is essential if inter-European trade is to expand sufficiently for the Marshall plan to succeed.

As he outlined the new financial scheme, Western European countries would be able to draw upon the payments union for funds to finance purchases among themselves. Repayment would be in the countries' own currencies plus certain percentages of so-called hard money" such as dollars or gold.

Stalin Expected to Make Peace Overtures

Moscow, March 11 —(AP)—Prime Minister Joseph Stalin takes the campaign platform tonight to make what most observers expect will be the most important Soviet public announcement of the past four years.

Stalin's speech will climax a campaign for national elections to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) which take place tomorrow. The prime minister himself is an unopposed candidate for re-election in Moscow.

Campaign speeches by other top-ranking members of the Soviet Communist party's powerful politburo have been highlighted by pronouncements of Russia's desire for peace.

Deputy Prime Minister V. M. Molotov, in a major speech in Moscow's hall of columns last night, reiterated previous Russian statements that communism and capitalism can live together in peaceful co-existence of two systems. But Molotov blasted at "black mailers from the imperialist camp" for trying to scare the Soviet people with a hydrogen bomb which he said "does not exist."

Foreign diplomats studied with extreme interest the speeches of Molotov and other politburo members. They predicted the Soviet Union would make some overture toward a new effort to settle international problems which now split the world.

Molotov said he believed peace is possible, but that the Soviet Union must be on its guard.

"We firmly believe in the Leninist-Stalinist principle of the peaceful co-existence of two systems and their peaceful economic competition," Molotov said, "but we also know full well that as long as imperialism exists, there exists also the danger of a new war."

"Imperialism and its expansionist plans are inevitable. They force supporters of lasting peace should not be passive. We must wage a more effective struggle for peace and draw masses of people together to oppose the attempts of the imperialists to launch a new war."

Molotov's reference to the hydrogen bomb was the first time it had been mentioned by name, although other commentators have referred to a "super-bomb."

Dr. Sander Is Confident of Reinstatement

Candia, N. H., March 11 — (AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander is confident the state board of registration in medicine will permit him to resume practice.

The handsome young doctor, acquitted of murder in the death of a cancer-plagued patient, said last night he felt sure the board will allow him to return to his patients "after calm, cool deliberation."

Dr. Sander made the statement shortly before he and his wife left on "a southern trip." They would not disclose their destination.

A representative of the state board, who talked with the doctor before he left, said the group may not hold a formal hearing on suspension or revocation of Dr. Sander's license for several weeks.

Members of the board will meet at the state house Monday to set the date.

The board is expected to give particular attention to Dr. Sander's court testimony that he inserted, or attempted to insert, an air-filled needle into a vein in the arm of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, his patient.

The state charged that the air injection caused Mrs. Borroto's death. Medical testimony was offered by the defense, however, that the vein had collapsed and that an air injection was impossible.

The 31 members of the house of delegates of the New Hampshire medical society will meet in Concord tomorrow to discuss the case. The organization has no power to suspend or revoke the doctor's license. It can express an opinion or pass resolutions that might influence members of the board of registration.

Hamilton S. Putnam, executive secretary of the society, said the meeting will be held behind closed doors. The group plans to issue a public statement after the meeting.

Dr. John S. Wheeler, secretary of the registration board, conferred at length yesterday with Asst. Atty.-Gen. William S. Green, who aided Atty.-Gen. William S. Phinney in the unsuccessful prosecution of the 41-year-old country doctor.

It was Phinney who advised the board, even before trial started, that it had the right to act no matter what the outcome of the court case might be.

Neither Dr. Wheeler nor Phinney's assistant would discuss the conference other than to say it pertained to Dr. Sander.

Man Sentenced to Life for Murder

Pocahontas, March 11 — (AP)—Fred Wiloughby, 47, of nearby Maynard, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for murder.

He pleaded guilty yesterday to killing 23-year-old Evis Buchanan March 1. A Circuit court jury fixed the punishment.

Sheriff Carl C. Brown said Wiloughby returned from a trip to Chicago to find his house had burned and his wife and five children were staying at Buchanan's mother's home. Wiloughby, the sheriff said, became involved in a quarrel with Buchanan which ended when the younger man was shot to death.

DOROTHY DIX Is It Love?

A girl asks me how she can tell whether she is in love or not.

Well, it isn't easy to diagnose a heart affection because the symptoms are so misleading. Every time you have a palpitation you think you have a fatal attack, whereas it may be only a flutter caused by indigestion from indulging in too much sentiment. Girls are particularly apt to be misled in this way because they are always sitting with their fingers on their pulses counting their heart throbs and expecting to be stricken at any moment.

So the principal advice that I would give any young woman who is wondering whether she has contracted a chronic case or is merely suffering a temporary disposition is to give herself the benefit of the doubt. For when you don't know whether you are in love or not you are NOT. When you are really head-over-heels in love for keeps, it breaks out all over you in a million places like the measles.

Still and all, there are certain indications of the state of her feelings which a girl does well to take into consideration in trying to decide whether the thing that ails her is a heart trouble that she will never get over as long as she lives or is just a passing fancy that the next good-looking youth she meets will cure.

Do You Tremble?

The first thing then is whether she can detect a heart murmur or not. The modern girl may be too husky and practical to tremble at the sound of a footstep as her grandmother did, but all the same if she is really in love she gets pretty much the same reaction to some particular lad that mother did. His coming turns on the lights and sets the joy bells ringing, and makes this the best of all possible and a grand old place to live in.

So unless some man is necessary to you, unless without him the gayest party is a flop; the finest dinner dust and ashes in your mouth; the brightest day dull and cloudy, you are not really in love.

Now are you in love as long as you have to justify your love and give a reason for it. If you have to say I love him because he is so intelligent or Tom because he is a go-getter or Sam because he is kind to his mother, what you have is only synthetic love. When you are really in love with a man, you love him because you love him and without any reference whatever to what he is or is not. It is just because he is and you are that way about him.

Then consider whether you have hallucinations or not. If you think some snub-nosed, carrot-haired youth is handsomer than Gregory Peck and you live in terror of the movies snatching him away to Hollywood or if you think some ordinary youth without twiddles to bless himself with an oracle upon

While half of his mind was sorrowing over her and the miseries of a cruel world, the other half of his mind, instead of puzzling over the problems of the case, was puzzling over the color of the girl's eyes. That was the only mystery he saw before him.

Of course, the fact that Azalea Palmer was almost blinded with tears confused him, but he was tempted to decide that the color of her eyes was all colors. As the gem-cutter splits the white light of the diamond into facets that flash forth tiny rainbows; so Queripel decided that Azalea Palmer's eyes were of all colors, indescant, gleaming with a shutting light. If only diamonds could be tender and pitiful! If only diamonds could weep! Anyway, her eyes were diamonds dripping with rain.

Being the daughter of the immensely wealthy Wendell Palmer, she had been used to giving orders to servants. She had been used to being gracious about it, but she was giving orders now to Queripel, of all people.

"YOU'VE got to save Paul from those flonds who arrested him merely because they found his fingerprints everywhere. I suppose you still think I'm horrible for defending the murderer of my father. They say I couldn't have loved my father. But I did! I do! That's why I want you to find the real murderer and release the innocent man I love. You've got to! You've got to! Or I'll—I'll kill you!"

He had to smile a little at that; but with deep sympathy. For Queripel knew, all too well, what sufferings criminals inflict on the devoted souls who waste on them undeserved and ill-requited love. Queripel often said:

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie By Rupert Hughes

Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The wealthy Wendell Palmer has been found dead in his library, his skull battered by a desk telephone. Police arrest his daughter's fiance, the sculptor Paul Moody, for the murder. Palmer had opposed Paul's courtship of his daughter, Azalea, saying that the young man was after money. Furthermore, Palmer had prevented Paul from being assigned to do a sculptured group for a new building. A short time before the murder, Paul had gone to the Palmer home for a showdown with Azalea's father and police detective James Silvers says he found fingerprints on the phone which were Paul's. Although Paul denies touching the phone during his visit, refusing to believe her fiance's worded her father, Azalea goes to private detective Martin Queripel to ask him to clear Paul of the murder charge.

XII
MARTIN QUERIPPEL looked like that man who does not exist—the average man. He was the average man, in fact. He was neither tall nor short, nor fat nor lean, nor dark nor light. No feature of his face was unusual or prominent. As a detective, he needed no disguise, since there was nothing about him to catch or to hold the attention, much less the memory.

What Queripel liked best was a case in which he could prevent a crime, before it was committed. Unraveling mysteries and following the footsteps of hit-and-run killers bored him.

He had heard only the first few words from Azalea Palmer when he decided that the case was not for him. The crime was done. The logical candidate for the honors was in jail.

This heart ached for the poor little rich girl whose wealth and beauty had brought her such woes, but there was nothing he could do about it further than to be as kind as he could and ease her out of his office into the care of her friends and the help of all-healing time.

"Your trust in Paul Moody touches me, deeply, my dear child," he murmured. "And this man must have many engaging qualities to have won such love as yours."

"If you could only know how sweet and good he is! And he's a great artist."

"So I've heard. So was Benvenuto Cellini—a great artist and a great criminal. He killed four men and was proud of it. An artist is necessarily an inventor, an impersonator. Even a painter or a sculptor must be something of an actor to succeed, and an excitable, passionate one. I understand that Paul Moody had a very hot temper and your father had done everything he could to hurt the young man's pride, and finally he prevented him not only from marrying you but from winning a big and lucrative commission."

"Yes, but—"

Queripel moved on: "According to the papers you yourself found your father beaten to death with the heavy base of his own telephone."

"That's all too true." She shuddered.

"A girl friend of yours—"

"Nadine Fennell. Yes. She reminded me not to touch anything. She notified the police. A radio car arrived almost at once. Two detectives and a whole flock. One man began to lift the fingerprints he found."

Queripel took it from there. "And when he turned in the fingerprints from the scene of the crime they proved to be exact duplicates of the acknowledged fingerprints of this man Moody."

She nodded helplessly, but without conviction.

Queripel pleaded: "If I were you, I'd be as brave as possible and let justice take its course."
